ABSTRACT

Apparatus and methods of information management in conjunction with the operation of a vehicle are disclosed. The information system apparatus and methods in accordance with the instant invention provide a substantially hands-free environment to a vehicle operator with regard to managing information pertaining to the operation of the vehicle. The apparatus and methods in accordance with the instant invention provide means of initiating communications, processing data, storing data, retrieving data, and using data to manage vehicle functions and operations.